

NISPACE NOTES

WORTHY RECOGNITION

When Special Agent Allan J. KERSEN BROCK turned over his Supervising Agent's duties to Special Agent Dick McKenna and departed Saigon on 16 February, he set some kind of a record as the recipient of accolades.

Commander U.S. Naval Forces, Vietnam, RADM Jerome H. KING presented him with the Navy Meritorious Civilian Service Award, the third highest level honorary award under the Navy Incentive Award System. He also received an autographed photograph from RADM KING, a letter of appreciation from CAPT F. C. Satterthwaite, Commanding Officer, NAVINVSERPAC and one from CDR D. T. Burrows, Commanding Officer, NISO Vietnam and to top it off, the Vietnamese Navy, in an unusual and highly impressive ceremony presented him with the STAFF SERVICE MEDAL FIRST CLASS, a unique honor for a U.S. civilian.

GS - GC - GD*

In nearly every NISO there is an "Old Pro," a Special Agent who always seems to get the tough assignment, the critical investigation, the pressure case, where high-level interest complicates the scene. Special Agent Neil A. DONAHUE fits this description at NISO HAWAII. "Corky", as he is known by his associates, joined the "firm" in 1963, following his retirement from the Honolulu Police Department as a Captain of Detectives. He had come to Hawaii in 1940 to play semi-pro football, after a brilliant career at Stanford University with the famous "Wow Boys". As Corky puts it, "I came here for three months and stayed over." Married to the former Kanani AUSTEN of Honolulu, the DONAHUE's have twelve children (one married and eleven at home). This,

*Grid Star-Good Cop-Great Dad coupled with the charm of the lovely and attractive Mrs. DONAHUE has prompted numerous newspaper articles in the past and, according to