1 October 1964

* IN MEMORIAM *

* It is with the deepest regret that we note the death of Special Agent Marvin *
* A. Hinchon on 17 August 1964. "Marv" succumbed to cancer. He is survived by his * * wife, Noreen, and an infant son, born just prior to "Marv's" death. *

* A 1957 History-Political Science graduate of the University of Michigan, he * * commenced his duties as a Special Agent, ONI, at DIO-9ND on 13 March 1961 follow- * * ing 3½ years as an investigator for the Michigan Liquor Control Commission and a * * brief stint as a Revenue Officer with the Internal Revenue Service. Subsequent *
* to his Chicago assignment, he was assigned to the SRA at Indianapolis, Indiana, *
* and to the SRA at Detroit, Michigan, where he was stationed at the time of his * * death. *

* In addition to the Detroit Agents, his funeral was attended by the Super- * * vising Agent and others from Chicago. *

* We are pleased to note that "Marv" was a member of the Special Agents' *
* Association. *

SCHOOL BELLS

September 21st marked the advent of another educationally crammed ONI academic year. Basic Class 1B(65) reported aboard as the forerunner of six Basic courses, two In-Service Seminars, an expanded Technical Aids course, a Polygraph course, and a Supervising Agents' Seminar - all projected for this fiscal year. Whereas the training emphasis continues to be the reduction of the number of new agents who have not yet attended a Basic course, the older hands can look forward to the limited resumption of the In-Service program. It is hoped that this can be extended to a resumption of the refresher program in Fiscal Year 1966.

The Investigations Department staff at ONI headquarters, although occasionally dazed by the seeming brevity of the Summer and the Fall onrush of students, distinctly recognizes the importance of the training program. With few exceptions, each staff member doubles in brass as an instructor or in some other way directly plays a role in support of ONI's training effort.

INSPECTION TRIPS

During the summer "vacation", Captain Robert P. JACKSON, Jr., USNR, the Assistant Director of Naval Intelligence (Counterintelligence), accompanied by various members of his staff and a Supervising Agent from another District, continued his inspection swing of all CONUS districts visiting DIO-1ND, DIO-11ND, DIO-12ND, DIO-13ND and DIO-17ND.

These trips are expected to continue, and everyone may look forward to seeing Washington visitors.

PROFESSIONAL REPUTATION

Each of us is aware of the personal importance of our professional reputation. It affects our advancement, and our assignments; in short, our career. From a more altruistic standpoint, it also indirectly influences the contribution we can make on behalf of ONI. But, realizing all this, how many of us have given more than elementary consideration to the many factors which fashion our professional reputation?

The evaluation of our superiors, particularly as officially recorded in our Qualification & Evaluation reports, is an obvious factor and a prime one. Our investigation reports, acting as the spokesman for our investigative accomplishments to our supervisors not only at the district level but also at all levels of headquarters, comprise another important factor. Today's "routine" case can be tomorrow's Washington "crisis"; our reports may be read not only at the highest echelons of ONI but also in many and varied other offices, bureaus, and agencies within the vast Washington administrative complex.

Our "total performance" while a student at any of the ONI training courses is another factor to be considered. Mere presence at the school gives the headquarters staff an opportunity to form a personal impression of the agent, and this impression will become a part of your professional reputation. "Total performance" conveys not only academic achievement in terms of test scores but also attitude, appearance and bearing. An agent who is alert and quietly enthusiastic, who asks intelligent, well-motivated questions, and one who displays a desirable appearance by neat, clean and conservative attire and good personal grooming, creates the impression of a professional.

The reaction we generate among those with whom we "do business", such as Naval officers, law enforcement agents, other federal representatives, even the general public, has a mysterious way of filtering back to form a small part of the whole. And, this is equally true of the interpersonal relationships existing between us and our superiors, contemporaries, and subordinates.

There are many intangibles which can affect this sum. Perhaps the goal of each of us should be to eliminate any disparity between our own view of our professional reputation and that held by others. Nevertheless, we should be mindful of its significance, and that it is our own creation. Every effort should be made to ensure it speaks highly for us.

OVERSEAS REQUESTS

Requests for consideration to assignment overseas remain active in ONI files unless notified to the contrary. There is no need to periodically resubmit requests unless a significant change in your qualifications, overseas area preferences, etc., occurs. Conversely, if you no longer desire to be considered for overseas assignment, promptly submit a letter or memorandum requesting cancellation of your request so that it need not complicate the screening process and create unnecessary work.

INVESTIGATION REPORTS

In the preparation of 119's on category 7(c) cases initiated by ONI for the purpose of determining the details/disposition of an offense, it is desired that the pertinent information regarding the source of the offense information, i.e., FBI-Criminal check, appropriate service write-up (NAC element), or Subject's SPH, be included in the 119. In any event, a statement should be included indicating whether the Subject did or did not admit the offense on his SPH. This information should be set forth at the beginning of the 119; it will give commands being serviced the complete history of the offense in one document, thereby eliminating the need to include the above in the letter reporting the NAC results.

RETIREMENTS

Three of our brother agents, all veterans, retired during this quarter.

William ("Bill") A. T. McNULTY, DIO-4ND, retired on 14 August 1964 after twenty-seven years with ONI. Of these, almost twenty-four were as a Special Agent in which he served in various capacities including a stint as Assistant Supervising Agent.

Maurice W. ("Mo") GAUGHRAN, DIO-3ND, retired effective 25 September. A veteran of twenty-eight years with the Detective Bureau of the New York City Police Department, "Mo" completed thirteen and a half years as an ONI Special Agent.

Another DIO-3ND veteran to retire, on 31 August 1964, was Rudolph ("Rudy") R.

CAPUTO. Previously with the Bureau of Narcotics, "Rudy" was first employed as a Special Agent on 1 July 1940. He was called to active duty on 26 September 1941, but recommenced his service as a Special Agent 1 August 1946 following his RAD. He has served continuously as a Special Agent since. "Rudy" is a polygraph operator and the co-author of a book on scientific interrogation.

NOTICES AND INSTRUCTIONS

The following NOTICES and INSTRUCTIONS are among those recently published of interest to agents in the field:

AGENT GETS AWARD FOR "QUAKE" WORK

A Superior Accomplishment Award, in the form of a $300 check, was recently presented to Special Agent John E. LANGAGER of DIO-17ND by Rear Adm. R. E. RIERA, Commandant, 17th Naval District.

LANGAGER, for about five days following the March 27th earthquake and tidal wave, assumed duties as Acting Chief of Police at Kodiak, Alaska, alternating days and nights with the regular Chief of Police. It was for this volunteer service that the check, along with the following letter, was forwarded by the Director of Naval Intelligence:

"Dear Mr. Langager:

I have learned from Captain Miller, the District Intelligence Officer, 17th Naval District, of your outstanding contribution to the city of Kodiak while serving as Acting Chief of Police during the Alaskan earthquake disaster of March and April 1964.

It is with great pleasure that I commend you for your exceptional performance under hazardous and adverse conditions, and I forward to you a cash award for Superior Accomplishment of Duty. I regret that I cannot deliver it in person. By the service you rendered and the manner in which you did so, you reflected great credit on yourself and the Office of Naval Intelligence. 'Well Done'.

/s/ RUFUS L. TAYLOR
Rear Admiral, U. S. Navy
Director of Naval Intelligence"

On hand for the presentation were Capt. Cook CLELAND, OIC, DIO-17ND, Jack DONNELLY, Supervising Agent, DIO-17ND, and the Kodiak Chief of Police.

Rear Adm. RIERA added his remarks to those of Rear Adm. TAYLOR, complimenting LANGAGER on his performance of duty. He also said he was intensely gratified with the manner in which all civilian employees of the Navy in Kodiak responded in taking care of the situation caused by the devastating "quake" and tidal wave.
